Republican National Convention, 1876.

The next National Convention for the election of President and Vice-President of the United States will be held in the CITY OF CINCINNATI, ON WEDNESDAY, THE FOURTH DAY OF JUNE, 1876, at 12 o'clock M., and is composed of delegates from each State in the number of its Senators and Representatives in Congress, and of two delegates from each Territory and District of the United States.

The call for the election of delegates by the several State and Territorial Republican electors, and regard to past political activity, affiliations, who are national issues, and desire to see permanent harmony and a vigorous and free exercise of the political rights of every citizen, free from the contamination and without fear of official dishonesty and misrepresentation of the Government and capable officers, who seek reform in government as the best means to secure the credit of the nation, to maintain the obligations of the nation, and in every way the national faith, to hold that the common territory of American liberty, shall absolutely free from slavery, that for the protection of the Government, and to those who adhere and support them as in addition and the laws, and enforcing and strength of the National Unity in the hands of the Republic.

PRESIDENT GRANT WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE OR ATTEMPT TO INFLUENCE THE NOMINATION.

PHILADELPHIA, February 17, 1876.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier.

Who will receive the nomination of the Republican National Convention in Cincinnati in June next is a question that is now asked by thousands. The talk about President Grant being a candidate for re-nomination is the merest nonsense. Those who are in the confidence of the President, and know whereof they affirm, assert that at no time has President Grant been a candidate for the third nomination, and if a nomination should be unanimously tendered him at Cincinnati he would not accept it. He never has been a candidate for this nomination, is not now, and will not be when the Convention meets. It can also be positively asserted that President Grant is willing to let the National Convention determine who shall be his successor and will not undertake to influence in any manner the decision of the Convention. He will be perfectly satisfied with whoever receives the high honor, and will give to the nominee, whoever he may be, his cordial and earnest support. If the Convention were to be held this month there is no doubt as to who would receive the nomination, and it is not believed that the situation will be materially changed between now and then. The strongest candidate now, and time will tend to strengthen his candidacy rather than to weaken it, is our own, honored statesman,

JAMES G. BLAINE.

In this State where Mr. Blaine was born and spent the early part of his life, he counts his friends by thousands, who are earnestly and enthusiastically at work to secure his nomination for the first office in the gift of the people, believing, as they do, that with him as the standard-bearer of the Republican party its triumph in November next would be overwhelming. He possesses all the qualities of a great party leader, his opinions and intentions are always openly and honestly declared. He possesses great personal magnetism and is admitted to be the first parliamentarian in the land. His long experience in Congress, his marvelous memory, strong and vigorous mind, his thorough knowledge of all the various industries and interests of the country, mark him at once as a leader. Probably no man in the United States has so many personal friends as has this gentleman. When he opened the Amnesty debate many timid ones thought he might by his bold utterances injure himself personally, while they admitted that his effort would do great good for the party. It is now conceded that in the language of the New York Tribune, he knew Jefferson Davis best." That effort, instead of weakening him, has greatly strengthened him—the American people like a bold, vigorous, aggressive man.

It should be remembered that Mr. Blaine is not responsible for this debate. The Democratic Party undertook to restore to Jefferson Davis the rights of citizenship. Mr. Blaine protested against this and for reasons which were conclusive to every loyal man in the North. For this manly protest of his he has been assailed by every Democratic sheet in the land as haunting the "bloody shirt;" but by that speech he won the admiration and the love of the Republican party.

His recent speech upon the Finances of the country commends itself to every man in the land, be he Republican or Democrat, who believes that it is as necessary for the Government to be honest as it is for an individual. His broad and statesmanlike views on all questions and intimate knowledge of the public men of this country would make him a President fit to rank with any of the illustrious men who have filled his office.

CANVASSING THE ROLL OF STATES—A CAREFUL ESTIMATE OF THE VOTE—MR. BLAINE TO LEAD HEAVILY ON THE FIRST BALLOT—HIS NOMINATION BRIGHT AND CERTAIN.

Many of his warm admirers here who have been canvassing his chances for this nomination and are actively at work to secure it, assert that in the Convention he will receive on the first ballot the votes of all the New England States, except Connecticut, also those of New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Nevada, Oregon and California, making in all 282 votes. Pennsylvania will on this ballot cast as a compliment to its worthy Governor, General Hartranft, its 58 votes, but they will after this be transferred to Mr. Blaine. The 43 votes of Connecticut it is believed will be given to Postmaster-General Jewell; the 14 votes of South Carolina to Governor Chamberlain; the 42 votes of Illinois to Minister Washburne; the 44 votes of Ohio to Governor Hayes; the 70 votes of New York to Senator Conkling and the vote of Kentucky, Missouri and Tennessee, amounting in the aggregate to 93, to Secretary Bristow, while it is believed that Senator Morton will receive the vote of his own State, Indiana, and the votes of Arkansas, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas, making in all 132. The 22 votes of the Territories and the District of Columbia will be divided among the several candidates.

It will thus be seen that this canvass which has been very carefully made, gives ex-Speaker Blaine on the first ballot 282 votes of the 754 of the Convention; 378 are necessary to a choice. It is believed that the vote of Connecticut, South Carolina, Illinois and Ohio will be given to him on the second or third ballot. This, with the vote of Pennsylvania, will add 174 to his 282 and, give him a large majority of the Convention.

THE OTHER CANDIDATES.

It is believed that this analysis of the vote of the Convention will be found to be very accurate. Senator Conkling is a very strong candidate in his own State, and commands everywhere the respect, confidence and admiration of the Republican party, but it is not believed that in the Convention his strength will extend beyond the vote of his own State.

While Secretary Bristow has many advocates and is entitled to the respect of all men for his vigorous and successful campaign against the corrupt Whiskey Ring, his strength in the Convention will not go beyond the vote above given him. It may be unjust to him, but the Republican party is not now in the mood to place in nomination for President any man living South of Mason and Dixon's Line.

Of course Senator Morton will be vigorously pressed by the people of his own State and that portion of the South which has been conceded to him; but the uncertain stand which he took on the financial question will prevent his receiving any greater vote than given him in the foregoing estimate.

THE CENTENNIAL ELECTION—A REPUBLICAN VICTORY ASSURED—THE LOYAL STATES WHEELING INTO LINE.

There can be no longer any doubt as to the result of the next Presidential election. The Democratic party, true to its own conduct settled its fate. It has neither principles nor policy. It has lost the support of the Independent, who, in the language of the Cincinnati Commercial, are opposed to the present tendencies of the Democratic party: "they prefer Gold to Rags and the United States to the Southern Confederacy." It is conceded that the Democratic nominee, whomever he may be, will probably receive the vote of every Southern State except South Carolina and in addition to this will only command the Electoral vote of Indiana and Oregon, while the Republican party with Mr. Blaine as its candidate, is sure to receive the vote of California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Vermont and Wisconsin, in all 290 Electoral votes, being 35 more than is necessary to a choice, with a fair prospect of carrying in addition the vote of Florida, Louisiana and North Carolina.

CENTENNIAL.

A REVOLT.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Evening Post, telegraphs as follows on Wednesday, concerning a Democratic revolt against Randall:

Mr. Randall finds it very difficult to hold his party associates on the Committee on Appropriations to the policy laid down by him, and already there are indications of rebellion growing out of the refusal of two or three Democratic members to follow his leadership to the full extent of his retrenchment notions.

There was a very lively time in the committee-room to-day over the section in the Legislative Appropriation bill for an appropriation of seventy-five thousand dollars for concluding work on the St. Louis Custom House until the regular appropriation bill becomes available. Mr. Randall indicated his hostility to the proposition and declared his party associates to vote it down. Three Democratic members, however, declined to follow Mr. Randall, and two of them called his "bluff" on the roll-call, and voted with the Republicans and carried the proposition.

Mr. Randall was very indignant and declared his intention to carry his hostility into the House. Unless he shows a more yielding spirit than is shown by other members of the committee, he will decline to follow him any longer, and will vote according to their just convictions.

The Democratic Speaker has broken down thus early in his first session and the House will now present the edifying spectacle of Sunset Cox, the acknowledged buffoon of that body, who has exhibited his ideas of legislative decorum by such expressions as "Oh! you dry up," "Bellow away," "You're a hyena," "Baine's little pup," etc., in the Speaker's chair attempting to preside over the deliberations. He has been chosen by his party Speaker pro tem. and is to run the machine hereafter. Imagine him calling a member to order for unparliamentary conduct!

Bowen is out with another letter, this time to Dr. Bacon. He says he offered to testify at the first Beecher investigation, but was not permitted to do so; a statement emphatically contradicted by the Committee. Bowen says that he could have given them, as he proposes to give next week, "his reasons for believing Mr. Beecher guilty of adultery, perjury and hypocrisy." The public think Bowen had better stop writing letters and bring forward his facts.

If a newspaper, which in Portland whose initials are G. F. T., cannot discount Alex H. Stephens as a "paragraphist," we think it would be safe to back him for an even game.

DENTAL CARD.

DR. J. F. BABCOCK desires to say to that class of sufferers who are afflicted with neuralgic teeth that in almost every instance, the pain can be instantly relieved, and in a few hours time to five further painless operations the tooth may be filled and permanently restored to health. His success in this operation Dr. B. modestly claims is unparalleled in the history of dental surgery, he has never failed to save every aching tooth which he has attempted to save, and during the past four years there have been upwards of six hundred of thirty of them. However, before five teeth should have to be extracted, he will try, but in the first appearance of decay they should at once be properly, and so permanently, filled with some artificial material—absolutely pure gold being preferred by the best. Silver Fillings Babcock has placed in such teeth make them threes and gold fillings, and he will much prize that he puts in the statement that, to the best of his knowledge, he has not filling only out of the large number have proved defective.

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

Solicitor of Patents.

For Inventions, Trade Marks and Designs,

No. 70 State St., opposite Kilby St., Boston.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States, also in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents executed on reasonable terms, with despatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possessing superior facilities for obtaining Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, and the usual great delay there are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse." CHARLES MASON, Comr. of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office."

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such consistent proof of great talent and ability on his part, leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."

THE INVESTIGATION CONCLUDED

Which Scene Jordan exhibited as a self confessed scoundrel—A dishonored slanderer of the living and the dead—His lies concocted without a scintilla of basis—A shameful and pitiable spectacle

[SPECIAL TO THE WHIG AND COURIER.]

AUGUSTA Feb 19, 1870

The final hearing in the College Land and Scrip investigation took place this evening and is in the most interesting stage of its progress. The chief witness for the prosecution charges the notorious Dr Jordan of perjury—bringing that city's particular pupil, the demagogue—was finally called to the witness stand to answer the charges which have been so industriously circulated by him and his sympathizers. He was given the opportunity to give his authority for the assertion of fraud so positively declared to have been a fact. The following is a correspondence published in the extreme Republican newspaper and said that nothing had been under the rule and relentless examination by Senator Swasey he writhed in unexpected agony. When confronted with his explicit charges of jobbery and swindling as published in the Bangor Commercial and Bangor Whig and Courier he stammered and hesitated and retracted. He said he was told so and so, but when pressed to name the parties he stammered and retracted. He said he was told so and so, but when pressed to name the parties he stammered and retracted. He said he was told so and so, but when pressed to name the parties he stammered

A VALENTINE.

Oh! little love-lyrist by name,
What shall I send for your valentine?
Sunny and flowers are far away
Cold now the Winter sits sighing to-day
But he will not hide, and sun will not shine
What shall I do for a valentine?

I chose St. Valentine tell me here,
Why do you come at this dreary year?
Long of days when lilies are white,
Plenty of days when sunbeams are bright,
But why when everything's dark and drear
Why do you come, St. Valentine dear?

I go scarcely all the gardens all through and through
For a shed little flower for my love to send
But buds were asleep and the storms were dead
And the frost King snow came down on my head
So little sweetest lady mine,
Here is my heart for your valentine.

(Concluded.)

Hello! Old Harry! that's Pool. What could he want at this order? Then following a series of clicks. He wants to know if I'll come and have a game of billiards to-morrow evening. I shall say I have a friend staying with me. Click, click, click. He says: Bring your friend with you! What may your Mark? Will 50 do.

There was no objection. So I agreed. Click, click, click, went the machine for some time, and then Harry came and sat down, saying, He says: All right he shall exp[illegible]

After a time we joined the ladies in the drawing room and had some music and singing. Miss D[illegible] sang very finely, and Harry sang some duets together, and appeared so much accustomed to it that they must have had a great deal of practice. In the room was a little organ on which Harry gave a very creditable performance. He explained to me that it was blown by water power. He had fixed a horizontal wheel in the center of the tank, and pipes led the water from the bright tool. It appeared he got so fixed at lower to work a small water engine, which blew the organ. We all had musical playing, when Harry marked that this is self acting.

What did you mean? I said. Can you lift up like a clock and make it [illegible] barrel.

No! I'm afraid not, he replied, for great astonishment. Why, the piece Harry had just played has a programme attached to it, which organ, and no barrel.
